Grease Trap Pumping and Maintenance Services

Page 4, Item 11, Cleaning Procedures for Grease Interceptor

1. Remove manhole lids and/or access panels. Interceptors may have one, two, or three compartments and manhole access openings. Assure all traffic, worker, and pedestrian control safety measures are understood and followed.
2. Begin the cleaning procedure from the inlet end or inlet compartment using the following general sequence:
 - a. Remove the floating grease layer first.
 - b. Scrape grease adhering to the interceptor or grease trap walls where accessible.
3. As the water level is reduced to the sediment level, pull sediment toward the vacuum hose, removing all sediment.
 - a. If it becomes necessary to add water back into the interceptor, add only enough to create sediment slurry.
 - b. Vacuum each compartment until completely empty.
4. Repeat the above procedure as necessary from each manhole or other access opening so that, when completed, the entire interceptor has been left "clean" and empty.
5. Notify the property owner that the interceptor or trap requires power cleaning at the first occurrence of either of the following intervals:
 - a. Annually, or
 - b. When the build-up of solids and grease on the walls or baffles becomes significant or interferes with the operation of the interceptor or trap.
6. If the interceptor or trap is not functioning properly due to defective or missing pipes or components, or if the interceptor or trap is leaking, report these findings to the property owner.
7. Waste will be disposed of according to regulations at an approved waste discharge facility.
